COLORADO'S "MEDICAL" MARIJUANA

Are Regulations Working or is "Medical" Marijuana Being Diverted?

INTRODUCTION

In 2010, Colorado's legislature passed H.B. 10-1284, which was signed by the governor, to establish medical marijuana retail stores, cultivation sites and infusion centers to produce products and foods with marijuana. This legislation took effect July 1, 2010 with the purpose of regulating "medical" marijuana to prevent diversion for recreational use. This law has been in effect for two years and the question is "Have these regulations been effective?" During this two-year period, information has surfaced that "medical" marijuana is being diverted and that Colorado is becoming a source state for the drug. In a Rocky Mountain HIDTA (RMHIDTA) 2012 law enforcement-sensitive threat assessment, the original draft inferred that "medical" marijuana was being diverted and that Colorado was becoming a source state for marijuana. These statements were removed because they were not supported by actual data. At that time, the RMHIDTA Director made a recommendation, which was approved by the RMHIDTA Executive Board, to conduct a cursory assessment to determine whether there was any evidence that Colorado "medical" marijuana was being diverted.

This report will provide over seventy examples from nineteen agencies during the three-week study. This is not meant to be an all-inclusive study as there is no mechanism to collect nationwide the diversion of "medical" marijuana from Colorado

PROCESS

The Rocky Mountain HIDTA Investigative Support Center (ISC) made a request to a number of law enforcement agencies to report any cases they were aware of in which Colorado "medical" marijuana was being diverted. The purpose of this inquiry was to determine if there was any evidence to support the perception that Colorado's "medical" marijuana was being diverted for recreational use. The ISC only accepted cases that were completed and a matter of public record. This excluded a number of ongoing "medical" marijuana investigations, some involving major trafficking and money laundering. This report also excluded cases that were suspected of being tied to the "medical" marijuana industry but not corroborated.

Medical Marijuana Centers ("Dispensary")

Some examples of diversion involving medical marijuana centers

200 POUNDS OF "MEDICAL" MARIJUANA PURCHASED FROM DISPENSARY

In 2011, the West Metro Drug Task Force (WMDTF) investigated a Denver area dispensary for the shipment of "medical" marijuana outside of the state of Colorado. An undercover officer, who claimed to be from PENNSYLVANIA, arranged a deal with the owners of the dispensary to purchase 200 pounds of marijuana for distribution outside of Colorado.

HUNDREDS OF POUNDS OF "MEDICAL" MARIJUANA SHIPPED TO EAST COAST

In 2011, the Northern Colorado Drug Task Force (NCDTF) initiated a case involving multiple shipments of high-grade marijuana being shipped through a parcel service from Ft. Collins, Colorado to VIRGINIA. The marijuana source was determined to be an employee of a local parcel service. It was estimated that more than 300 pounds of marijuana had been shipped to VIRGINIA by the parcel service employee over the period of a few months.

During the course of this investigation, it was determined that additional marijuana sources living in Boulder and Denver, Colorado were shipping marijuana grown for medical purposes to other states utilizing this same parcel service employee. These states included ARIZONA, FLORIDA, GEORGIA, PENNSYLVANIA and VIRGINIA. The Boulder and Denver sources had confirmed ties to local dispensaries in those respective cities. The "medical" marijuana being shipped out of state was being sold for approximately $4,200 per pound and retailed for around $5,000 per pound on the East Coast. Investigators noted that "medical" marijuana retails for about $3,500 per pound locally in Colorado.

STOLEN RIFLE TRADED FOR "MEDICAL" MARIJUANA

In December of 2010, Bureau of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) agents received information that an individual had traded a stolen rifle in exchange for "medical" marijuana at a dispensary in Colorado Springs, Colorado. During the investigation it was learned that a juvenile had stolen the rifle during a burglary and given the stolen gun to his father so that he could exchange it for marijuana. The juvenile said that he drove with his father, who had a medical marijuana license, to the dispensary where his father then traded the gun for 1/8 of an ounce of marijuana. When his father got back into the vehicle he then gave the juvenile the marijuana. At the time of the transaction the suspect did not know that the gun was stolen.

IMPAIRED DRIVER CITES EASE OF GETTING DISPENSARY MARIJUANA

In April 2012, the Thornton Police Department contacted a driver who admitted to smoking marijuana and driving. She failed voluntary roadside tests and was arrested. During the search of her vehicle, officers found 3 ounces of marijuana with dispensary stickers on it. In an interview with the North Metro Task Force (NMTF) the suspect admitted she does not have a medical marijuana card and that she stands in front of dispensaries and asks people to buy her marijuana. The suspect admits she has done this multiple times and has never gone away empty handed. Officers asked her why she started going to dispensaries. She stated the quality of the marijuana is better, but that the main issue was availability. She has never had to wait for more than two hours to get a couple ounces of marijuana. However, when she was buying from other sources, she sometimes would wait and never get what she wanted. The ease and certainty of buying marijuana has made using dispensaries well worth it. She said she has been smoking marijuana for approximately eight years, but has just recently started getting marijuana from dispensaries.

UNDERCOVER OFFICER PURCHASES COCAINE AND MARIJUANA AT DISPENSARY

In November of 2010, and again in September of 2011, a Two Rivers Drug Enforcement Team (TRIDENT) officer purchased 10 grams of marijuana and 13 grams of cocaine from a subject in a Carbondale, Colorado dispensary. The task force had received information that the dispensary was selling "medical" marijuana, and other drugs, to individuals whom did not possess a medical card. The undercover officer was able to purchase marijuana without a medical card.

DISPENSARY SOURCE FOR ANOTHER DISPENSARY

In April 2011, North Metro Task Force (NMTF) served a search warrant on an apartment in Commerce City, Colorado. Investigators found seven marijuana plants, 3.2 pounds of marijuana and five guns (an AK47, shotguns, and handguns) along with $4,700 cash. Investigation revealed that the individuals living in the residence were selling marijuana from one dispensary to another dispensary. One of the residents admitted he sold the marijuana "under the table" to other dispensaries for a profit. He would buy the excess marijuana at one dispensary for a low price and then sell it to another dispensary for a profit.

CRAIGSLIST® "DISPENSARIES"

The Denver Police Department has had numerous robberies of people selling marijuana on Craigslist®. Although subjects advertise on the site as "Amendment 20 compliant", investigators are finding that they are in violation of state law. Investigators have conducted over thirty transactions from Craigslist® purchasing "medical" marijuana and weren't turned down for not having their medical marijuana cards. These transactions typically led to a marijuana grow operation at the suspect's residence.

- Denver Police Officers responded to a Craigslist® ad for "medical" marijuana and began buying from the suspect without mentioning or showing any medical marijuana card. During the arrest, the suspect was armed with a 40-caliber handgun. A search revealed over 10 pounds of dried marijuana and large marijuana grow operation in the residence. In October 2011, the North Metro Task Force (NMTF) arrested several individuals for cultivation after they were found to be growing 963 plants in a partially-abandoned medical office building in Westminster, Colorado. Because seven out of the nine suites in the building were vacant, the landlord created a "medical marijuana addendum" to the lease. A suspect claiming to be the owner of a legal dispensary in Edgewater, Colorado moved into the building and utilized the seven vacant suites to grow the 963 plants, without an off-premise grow license. He admitted that he was sourcing his legal dispensary from the illegal grow in Westminster. A dispensary employee was in one suite tending to grows when the search warrants were served.

MULTI-STATE "MEDICAL" MARIJUANA TRAFFICKING ORGANIZATION DISMANTLED

In September of 2010, the Northern Colorado Drug Task Force (NCDTF) investigated an organization suspected of distribution of marijuana grown under the guise of "medical" marijuana to multiple non-medical marijuana customers in COLORADO, NEW MEXICO, MISSOURI and ARKANSAS. The marijuana was being sold locally for $3,500/pound and sold for as much as $7,000/pound in Arkansas.

A Ft. Collins, Colorado resident, claiming to be a caregiver for 300 medical marijuana patients in Colorado, sponsored seminars where potential patients paid to meet with marijuana-friendly doctors who, in turn, would recommend and sign medical marijuana paperwork. These patients would then often list this grower as their designated caregiver, allowing for more marijuana plants to be grown.

During the course of this investigation, six additional suspects tied to the Ft. Collins caregiver were identified. The caregiver made multiple copies of her own medical marijuana patient lists and provided these men with photocopies to give their numerous Denver metro area marijuana grows the appearance of legitimacy. The marijuana harvested from these numerous grows was sold on the black market to customers in various states.

At the completion of this investigation, nine people were indicted by the Colorado Attorney General's Office. Multiple search warrants were served and more than 110 pounds of processed marijuana was recovered ($375,000 worth) along with 687 marijuana plants and $175,000 in cash.

It was discovered that a very small percentage of the marijuana grown in this case was actually being sold to Colorado medical marijuana patients. Most of this marijuana was sold in pound and multi-pound quantities to anyone willing to pay for it.

DISPENSARY "PATIENT" SELLS 50 PERCENT OF HIS DISPENSARY MARIJUANA TO JUVENILES

On May 31, 2012, North Metro Task Force (NMTF) executed a residential search warrant in Thornton, Colorado where a 19-year-old male had been selling marijuana. The suspect admitted to selling marijuana for approximately two years, but had recently "grown" his business after getting his medical marijuana card. He stated that he gets the marijuana he sells from a dispensary in the Denver Metro area.

The suspect said he purchases approximately 5-6 ounces of marijuana per week (1-2 ounces at a time, three times per week.) He stated that he sells about 60% of the product to his customers and smokes/"shares" the other 40%. With these amounts he receives a rough profit of about 30%.

He admitted to three to four drug sales per day, seven days a week or ninety deals per month. The suspect went on to say that about 50% of the marijuana he sells is directly to juveniles (approximately forty-five sales a month).

NMTF detectives asked the suspect how dealing with the dispensaries had changed the way that he does business. He stated that dispensary marijuana is so easy to get and is such high quality.

The dispensary owners were subsequently interviewed and told the officer there is very little they could do to monitor the purchases from individuals. They also said there is no way to determine if someone appears to be purchasing too much marijuana for any medical condition. When the officer explained that the individual would have to be smoking three marijuana cigarettes an hour for twenty-four hours a day to cover what he was purchasing, the owner said that he didn't see that as suspicious since different people need different amounts to control their pain.

CRAIGSLIST® CONTACTS FOR DIVERSION OF "MEDICAL" MARIJUANA

Boulder County Drug Task Force (BCDTF) detectives went to Craigslist® and typed in "marijuana in Boulder CO" and found multiple listings for the sale of "medical" marijuana. Detectives conducted six operations and found that all of the suspects had their marijuana registry identification card. They said they would only sell to other cardholders whom they could claim as patients. An undercover officer posed as an out-of-state visitor to Colorado who did not possess a marijuana registry card, but wanted to buy multiple pounds of marijuana. The suspects sold marijuana to the undercover officer, being aware the marijuana was going outside Colorado. The task force made six felony arrests and detectives seized 10 pounds of marijuana, one gun, $1,400 cash and a vehicle.

CAREGIVER'S MARIJUANA TO LOUISIANA

The Boulder County Drug Task Force (BCDTF) conducted an investigation of a marijuana growing and distribution operation in Erie, Colorado. Detectives located a substantial marijuana growing operation and evidence the suspect was using a single engine airplane to transport marijuana to the EAST COAST. The suspect held a marijuana registry card and claimed to be a "caregiver". The suspected was arrested and detectives seized 36 pounds of marijuana, $36,000 in cash, the residence and a vehicle.

CAREGIVER DIVERTS POUNDS OF MARIJUANA TO KANSAS

In May of 2012, Northern Colorado Drug Task Force (NCDTF) was contacted by detectives in Kansas regarding a male arrested with marijuana. His source for the marijuana was identified as being from Ft. Collins, Colorado. The source delivered multi-pound quantities of marijuana to KANSAS three to four times per month. A subsequent investigation conducted by the NCDTF led to the arrest of the Ft. Collins source as he was delivering 8 pounds of high-grade marijuana into KANSAS ($28,000 worth).

A search warrant was served at the Colorado dealer's residence. Officers seized a marijuana grow operation with over 22 pounds of processed marijuana and a small amount of MDMA. He was involved as a medical marijuana caregiver locally, allegedly providing medical marijuana to patients.

PATIENT/CAREGIVER FOUND WITH EXCESSIVE PLANTS

Boulder County Drug Task Force (BCDTF) investigated a marijuana-growing operation in a home located in Erie, Colorado. The homeowner possessed a marijuana registry identification card and also claimed to be a caregiver for two patients. He was significantly out of compliance when detectives discovered 80 growing marijuana plants and the evidence of an additional forty plants that were recently harvested.

CLANDESTINE GROWER SUPPLIES DISPENSARY

In January of 2011, North Metro Task Force (NMTF) received information regarding a large marijuana grow operation. A 330 marijuana-plant grow was found, along with 1.7 pounds of dried marijuana. It was discovered that the operator of the grow claimed 19 total patients and each of the patients had a medical marijuana recommendation for 25 plants. He acknowledged that he sold to dispensaries at wholesale prices. This grower had 296 plants and over 20 ounces of dried marijuana, above what is permissible by law.

COMMENTS

During the course of this assessment some criminal justice sources commented on the diversion of "medical" marijuana from Colorado. Some of the comments received include:

- "Drug traffickers and out-of-state opportunists are exploiting Colorado's medical marijuana laws. Recent revisions to state law have done little to prevent the involvement of criminals and individuals who use the law for financial gain."

Information reported suggests that members of known criminal groups are involved in Colorado's medical marijuana industry. These individuals are affiliated with traditional drug-trafficking organizations, as well as ethnic organized criminal organizations.

- "I have interviewed many of the people that have been arrested with Colorado "legally" grown marijuana in Omaha. They all indicate that the government in Colorado looks at marijuana as virtually legal in Colorado. They indicate that marijuana and THC are very abundant and getting a medical permit is extremely easy; "anyone can get one". We have had several incidences over the past 2 years where we were able to confirm that marijuana from Colorado has been illegally sold here in Omaha. Much of this marijuana appears to have been "legally" grown in Colorado by growers that are following the laws of Colorado. Generally we see 2- to 10-pound shipments coming in to Omaha from these "legal" grows. In Omaha, NE. Colorado marijuana sells at prices 3-4 times that of our traditional Mexican grown marijuana."

-SERGEANT DAVE BIANCHI, OMAHA, NEBRASKA POLICE NARCOTICS UNIT

- "The Chicago Police Department Package Interdiction Team (PIT) is reporting that the CO "medical" marijuana industry has been making its way to Chicago via USPS, FEDEX, and UPS parcels. Compared to previous years, marijuana from Colorado is steadily becoming just as prevalent as marijuana from California and Oregon. Marijuana from CO has been arriving in bulk amounts (usually about 1-2 pound shipments). As of May 2012, the PIT has seized nearly 10,000 grams of "medical" marijuana."

-MARY B. KENNY, INVESTIGATIVE SUPPORT CENTER MANAGER, CHICAGO HIDTA

- "We received numerous complaints about illegal sales from Dispensaries but have not had the time or manpower to fully investigate. With the State Department of Revenue Medical Marijuana group losing its funding, regulation of this business is almost non-existent."

-SERGEANT ANDREW HOWARD, DENVER POLICE DEPARTMENT

- "There were 492 highway interdictions of marijuana in the St. Louis Division during 2011 with an identified point of origin. Eighty-five percent of these seizures originated in states that have legalized or decriminalized marijuana. During 2011, the number of marijuana seizures that originated in Colorado surpassed California, possibly reflecting the increasing availability of "medical" marijuana in the St. Louis Division."

- "...we are experiencing a significant increase of medical marijuana being brought into Northwestern and North Central Kansas. The majority of all marijuana being purchased and or seized is medical marijuana, which is a dynamic shift from years past.... Equally as important, intelligence gathering from sources in our investigations indicates that the targets are traveling to Colorado and bringing large quantities for this area of the state back to Kansas. We have seen a shift in trafficking methods where that, medical marijuana is being sold at an increased price compared to the Mexican marijuana of the past."

-KELLY W. RALSTON, SPECIAL AGENT IN CHARGE, SPECIAL OPERATIONS DIVISION, KANSAS BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

- "During late 2011 and 2012, the DEA St. Louis Division (SLD), which consists of the states of Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota, and the Southern Judicial District of Illinois, reported a significant increase in the availability of high-grade marijuana. Most of this marijuana originated in states where the sale and use of marijuana has been legalized for medical purposes. As more states legalize and/or decriminalize the use of marijuana, the impact will increase on nearby states. Increased trafficking activities, and abuse of what many individuals perceive as a safe and legal substance, will strain the resources of law enforcement, treatment professionals, and communities."

-DRUG ENFORCEMENT ADMINISTRATION – ST. LOUIS FIELD DIVISION

- "Currently, you hardly see any Canadian marijuana in Richmond, Virginia, if at all. Everything I am coming across is from either from Colorado or California. The money is out there and the "medical marijuana" industry makes it profitable for the growers in CO and CA to ship to states where the drug is illegal and in demand. It was being shipped via car/truck, UPS, USPS, FedEx and shipping containers to name a few."

-ASSISTANT CHIEF CHRISTOPHER PREUSS, VIRGINIA COMMONWEALTH UNIVERSITY POLICE DEPARTMENT

- "Colorado's medical marijuana system allows for widespread exploitation and illicit marijuana distribution... Colorado is on track to become a primary source of supply for high-grade marijuana throughout the country."

-DRUG ENFORCEMENT ADMINISTRATION – DENVER FIELD DIVISION

Conclusion

This mini, three-week cursory assessment revealed that many agencies do not specifically track "medical" marijuana incidents. However, some that did report to the Intelligence Support Center (ISC) support the premise that Colorado's regulations are not working and marijuana is being diverted by patients, caregivers and dispensaries through a variety of different techniques.

The assessment also supports the premise that Colorado "medical" marijuana is being diverted inside Colorado and to other states across the country. In this brief report, twenty-three states were identified receiving Colorado's "medical" marijuana. The assessment is suspected of reporting only a small sample related to diversion of "medical" marijuana from Colorado. Based on this report, there is evidence that Colorado's regulations are not working and "medical" marijuana is being diverted for recreational purposes.
